

The Antropov Foundation aims to foster and promote values steeped in philosophy and ethics to the wider public. We consider it our mission to help individuals grow more ethical in their thoughts, words and actions. The charity's main field of activity lies in promoting cultural and academic initiatives, events, publications and support of institutions and talented individuals in Europe and beyond.

The history of the foundation began with a meaningful encounter. As related by its founder, Alexey Antropov: "Many years ago, I met the Chilean philosopher and humanist, Darío Salas Sommer. Sommer's best-known book, Morals of the 21st Century, became one of my best guides and companions. Sommer's philosophy and books changed my whole life, giving to it a sense of meaning and purpose, and prompted me to become involved in charity projects. Under the impression from our conversations, I established my own charity that undertook to promote meaningful and life-changing encounters for other people. The ultimate goal of the foundation consists in continually encouraging individuals to search for and develop their best qualities".

With headquarters in Monaco, the Antropov Foundation carries out its projects in Paris, London and Moscow. Since early 2018, it has been working on major philanthropical initiatives and setting of the philanthropical agenda for the new millennium. The foundation held an important International Philanthropy Summit in Monaco. The dates for the next event will be announced on our website.

Also, having forged a strategic partnership with CEPS (Centre for European Policy Studies) and its Director Dr. Daniel Gros, the Antropov Foundation participated in the Idea Labs conference that took place in early March 2020 in Brussels. On behalf of the foundation our speaker chaired the panel discussion Black Swans: In Search for Patterns of Unforeseen Events that sparked much interest as one of the most relevant subjects.
